SELF-HELP RELIEF FROM MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE

by Robert W. Snyder*

Introduction

In 1983, the Minnesota Legislature passed a new law giving temporary relief to certain owners of mortgaged property who are facing financial difficulties. In very general terms this law, which may be called the "mortgage foreclosure moratorium act", allows a distressed landowner to get up to a twelve (12) month delay in the foreclosure sale of mortgaged property.<sup>1/</sup>

The purpose of this leaflet is to provide information, legal forms, and instructions that will allow qualified farm and home owners to take at least partial advantage of the new law, by self-help, and thus avoid some or all attorney's fees. By following these instructions carefully, landowners will be able to effectuate the first stage of court actions -- a temporary halt to pending mortgage foreclosure proceedings. This will give the financially-pressed farmer or homeowner a brief period to 1) Do some financial planning, perhaps with the assistance of the Agricultural Extension Service, and 2) Try to negotiate a settlement with the lender responsible for the foreclosure proceedings.

If a borrower is unable to negotiate a settlement well before the end of the temporary period of stoppage, a licensed attorney should be retained for purposes of representation in subsequent legal proceedings. Even if this occurs, the landowner will have saved some legal fees by following the self-help instructions in this leaflet.

Description of the Act

1. Name (for our purposes): 1983 Mortgage Foreclosure Moratorium Act.
2. Period of Effectiveness: The moratorium act applies only to foreclosure proceedings commenced after May 24, 1983 and before the act sunsets on July 1, 1984. Some parts die sooner, on April 30, 1984.
3. Mortgages Affected: The new law applies only to qualifying first mortgages on qualified property.

* Robert W. Snyder is an Extension Land Economist with the Agricultural Extension Service and an attorney licensed to practice in Minnesota.

To qualify, a first mortgage (1) must have been given before May 24, 1983 and (2) must NOT have been extended or renewed for a period longer than one year after May 24, 1983.

Mortgaged property qualifies if (1) it is homestead property, (2) no second or subsequent mortgage has been made against the property after May 24, 1983 and (3) the 1983 moratorium act has not previously been used on this piece of property.

4. Delay in Mortgage Foreclosure Sale: For most landowners, the most important provisions in the 1983 legislation are those allowing a delay in the mortgage foreclosure sale. To understand how the new law operates, it is useful to review mortgage foreclosure as a legal proceeding.

Mortgage foreclosure normally involves the following steps:

1) The lender that has taken the mortgage as security for a loan, (the mortgagee), or a bank, public agency, or other party to whom the lender (mortgagee) has assigned its rights under a mortgage agreement (an assignee) gives the landowner written notice that payments are in default. This notice should be given by certified mail, using a letter labeled "Notice of Default" or "Notice of Acceleration".<sup>2/</sup> It will tell the extent of the default, the payment needed to cure the default, and the deadline payment date which must be met to prevent the next step in the foreclosure proceeding.

2) If the default is not cured during the notice period, the foreclosing party will turn the matter over to an attorney who will prepare and have published a "Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale" in the legal newspaper for the location of the mortgaged property.

3) The attorney for the foreclosing party will also arrange to have personally delivered to (served upon) occupants of the mortgaged property written notice of the mortgage foreclosure sale at least four (4) weeks prior to the date of the sale.

4) If the mortgage is not reinstated by proper payment before the date of the mortgage foreclosure sale, someone from the county sheriff's department will "sell" the property by auction at the time and place indicated in the notice. The sale price will normally be large enough to cover the total amount unpaid on the mortgage plus interest, costs of the foreclosure proceeding, including attorney's fees, and any insurance and tax payments that have been advanced by the foreclosing party. The sale terminates the mortgage, but the landowner foreclosed against may continue to occupy the property and has the right to "redeem" the subject property during a period of either six or twelve months. If the property exceeds 10 acres in size,

<sup>2/</sup> This notice is required by statute for all conventional mortgages and may be required by the terms of other mortgage agreements.

5. Notice Before Sale: The timing of the two notices that normally precede a mortgage foreclosure sale are both affected by the 1983 legislation.

(a) The first is the Notice of Acceleration or Notice of Default. 3/ The 1983 law requires that the stated time allowed to cure the default must be at least 60 days after the notice is mailed. This requirement terminates automatically on April 30, 1984, after which the previous 30 day requirement will again apply.

(b) The second notice is notice of the mortgage foreclosure sale itself. Under the 1983 law, eight weeks published notice is required. This requirement also terminates automatically on April 30, 1984, after which the previous six week requirement will again apply.

6. Other Provisions: Another part of the 1983 law shortens the redemption period after a postponed foreclosure sale by a period equivalent to the period of postponement, but never to less than 30 days. This may be significant if you are unable to cure the default in the mortgage payments before the postponed foreclosure sale.

If, after obtaining the postponement, you are unable to make the partial mortgage payments ordered by the District Court Judge, you may request that the Order for the payments be changed. If you fail to make the partial payments as ordered, foreclosure proceedings can be commenced immediately. A second or reinstated moratorium will not be available since the 1983 legislation may be used to provide relief only one time on a given piece of property.4/

Using the Foreclosure Moratorium Act

Once you have received the Notice of Default (or Acceleration) referred to in Step 1 above, you should be eligible to request action by the District Court that can lead to a delay of up to 12 months in the mortgage foreclosure sale of your property. By following the instructions and using the worksheets that follow, you can accomplish the first step of this by yourself, avoiding any unnecessary expense for attorney's fees.

Before you proceed, consider this: If you first learn of the foreclosure proceedings through a Notice of Sale and have never received a Notice of Default (or Acceleration), you should consider challenging the validity of the proceedings without using the moratorium act. In the case of all conventional mortgages, a 60 day Notice of Default must precede the Notice of Sale. If the notice is not given, the foreclosure proceedings

3/ This notice may not be given for some nonconventional mortgages. See Footnote 2.

4/ This also applies to relief under the contract-for-deed provisions of the new law.

the redemption period is 12 months. Redemption requires payment of the sales price plus interest.

5) If the property is not redeemed during the redemption period, the landowner foreclosed against loses possession of the property. The certificate of sale acquired by the buyer at the mortgage foreclosure sale (if properly recorded) acts as an automatic conveyance of the property at the end of the redemption period.

The Mortgage Foreclosure Moratorium Act gives a farm or home owner temporary protection against mortgage foreclosure through a District Court Order that postpones the date of the mortgage foreclosure sale. This is significant because, until this sale, the mortgage can be reinstated by bringing payments up to date and reimbursing the foreclosing party for certain advances (e.g., property taxes) and expenses; after the sale, the mortgage may not be reinstated and the only way the borrower can keep from losing the property is to "redeem" it by paying the price that the property was auctioned off for at the foreclosure sale, plus interest. Unless most of the loan has already been repaid, the difference between the two figures will be substantial.

Here is the way the new law works. Once a farm or home owner has received notice that the mortgage on his property is being or may be foreclosed, the landowner may petition the District Court for a postponement of the mortgage foreclosure sale, using the procedures outlined below. Upon receipt of a properly drafted and signed petition, the District Court Judge is required to issue an Order temporarily stopping the foreclosure proceedings until a hearing is held on the request for postponement. The hearing must be held within 30 days.

At the hearing, both the landowner, now called the Petitioner, and the bank or other party foreclosing on the mortgage, now called the Respondent, have an opportunity to present facts and arguments about whether the sale should be postponed, how long it should be postponed, and the amount, if any, that the Petitioner should be required to pay as partial payments on the mortgage during the postponement period. After the hearing the Judge will issue a final Order on these matters.

The maximum postponement is 12 months if the mortgaged property is more than ten acres and six months otherwise.

The Order for the postponement is not effective until the Petitioner has paid to the District Court Clerk (for the Respondent) the actual costs incurred by the Respondent, including attorney's fees, in the foreclosure proceedings prior to the postponement. These costs should be zero or minimal if the Order stopping the foreclosure proceedings is made prior to publication of the Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale. The costs could be substantial if the Order is made later, largely because of the foreclosing party's attorney's fees, which are controlled by statute.

are probable invalid. The same thing may be true for nonconventional mortgages (e.g., those insured by the Veteran's Administration). For either type of mortgage, the best course of action may be to attack the proceedings as unlawful. To do this, you will need to hire an attorney. Assuming that you are successful, you may then invoke the 1983 moratorium act if and when you later receive a Notice of Default.

These instructions apply directly to two situations: 1) The property subject to the mortgage is still owned by the original borrower who gave the mortgage as security for a loan or 2) The mortgaged property is the subject of a contract for deed through which the present owner has assumed the mortgage from the original borrower. If your situation does not match one of these, you will have to modify the procedure, specifically with respect to the allegations and exhibits concerning how the present owner became responsible for mortgage payments, (paragraph 4 in the Petition and Verified Complaint (see Attachment B)).

Important

If the mortgage foreclosure proceedings have already progressed to the point where the mortgage foreclosure sale will soon occur, you should not attempt to deal with this matter without consulting a licensed attorney. Local practices, policies, procedures, and interpretations of the law may vary and the instructions below may need modification. Once the sale has occurred, no relief may be obtained through the new legislation.

Deciding When to Use the Moratorium Act

Although you are eligible to make use of the mortgage foreclosure moratorium act once you have received the Notice of Default (or Acceleration), you may want to consider delaying efforts to obtain relief under the law until the Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale has been published. The advantage of waiting is that the Notice of Sale establishes a definite date from which the six-or twelve-month delay can be measured. If the foreclosure proceedings are stopped prior to publication of the Notice of Sale, no sale date has yet been established. The court may decide to measure the six-or twelve-month delay from the date of the hearing on the postponement instead of from the date of a theoretical sale date that might have been established if the foreclosure proceedings had not been halted. This will reduce the time gained by the postponement.

The disadvantage of waiting until the Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale has been published is that obtaining the postponement will be more costly. This is because, by law, the order postponing the sale will not be effective until the Petitioner has paid to the Clerk of District Court a sum equivalent to the costs that have been incurred by the Respondent in the foreclosure proceeding, including attorney's fees. These costs will be minimal or zero before the Notice of Sale is published but may be hundreds of dollars after the Notice of Sale is published. Attorney's fees are controlled by statute and you can obtain a rough estimate by a simple calculation. First, use the formulas below to determine a maximum fee for the entire foreclosure proceedings.

If the mortgage was made before June 1, 1971

Original Amount Borrowed	Maximum Fee
Up to $10,000	$175 or less
$10,000 and over	$225 plus $50 for each additional $10,000 or major fraction thereof.

If the mortgage was made after May 31, 1971

Original Amount Borrowed	Maximum Fee
Up to $10,000	$225 or less
$10,000 and over	$275 plus $35 for each additional $5,000 or major fraction thereof.

Then, multiply the calculated sum by 50% to estimate the maximum attorney's fees for foreclosure proceedings that stop prior to the foreclosure sale, except the maximum must be at least $150.00

Use these figures with caution. They are approximations. You should always obtain an exact amount in writing from the Respondent.

The Step-by-Step Procedure

1. Obtain or make three (3) copies of each of the following:
  - (a) Any Notice of Default (Notice of Acceleration, etc.) on the mortgage that you have received;
  - (b) The mortgage instrument itself (copies for "abstract" property should be available from the County Recorder; copies for "Torrens" (registered) property should be available from the County Registrar of Titles);
  - (c) Any other instrument through which you assumed responsibility for payments on the mortgage (e.g., contract for deed); and
  - (d) The Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale, if already published.

2. Complete a "Summons and Notice of Hearing" by typing an original or filling in blanks in the attached form, in accordance with Attachment A. Do not sign until later.
3. Complete a "Petition and Verified Complaint" by typing an original or filling in blanks in the attached form, in accordance with Attachment B. Do not sign until later.
4. Take the Petition and Verified Complaint with all exhibits labeled and attached, to a Notary Public and have your signature on the "Verification" notarized. To find a Notary Public, check with your local Courthouse or bank.
5. Date and sign the Summons and Notice of Hearing and the Petition and Verified Complaint.
6. Make two (2) photocopies of the signed Summons and Notice of Hearing and the signed Petition and Verified Complaint. Attach labeled exhibits to the photocopies.
7. Contact the Assignment Clerk for the District Court at your County Courthouse and ask the Clerk to schedule a date, time, and place for a hearing on the mortgage foreclosure sale postponement that you will be petitioning for. The hearing must be held within thirty (30) days of the date you actually initiate legal proceedings with Step 12. Be prepared to show the Clerk the original signed Summons and Notice of Hearing and Petition and Verified Complaint. Also, ask for the Clerk's advice about the best date and time of day for you to present your Petition to a District Court Judge.
8. Obtain from the Clerk of District Court a "Note of Issue" form.
9. Complete the Note of Issue as indicated on the form itself. Make a copy for your own file. Keep the original for later filing.
10. Obtain from the foreclosing bank or other lending agency a written statement, preferably an affidavit, showing the exact amount of the actual costs, including attorney's fees, that will have been incurred by them in the foreclosure proceeding, as of the date that you plan to initiate legal proceedings (Step 12). Be prepared to show this statement and pay this amount, if necessary, to the Clerk of District Court at that time.
11. Prepare an "Order for Stay of Proceedings" by typing an original or filling in blanks in the attached form, in accordance with Attachment C.
12. Present the original signed copies of the Summons and Notice of Hearing and Petition and Verified Complaint to the District Court Judge serving as "Special Term" Judge or, if that Judge is not available, to any other District Court Judge, and request that the Judge sign the Order of Proceedings. Be prepared to tell the Judge the purpose of the moratorium act (relief from economic hardship) and to describe your own financial circumstances and need for relief. Be sure the date of the signature is indicated.

13. Make two (2) photocopies of the signed Order for Stay of Proceedings.
14. Arrange for "service on" (personal delivery to) the Respondent or the Respondent's attorney, using the following procedure:
  - (a) Determine whether to serve the Respondent or its attorney. If you have already received the Notice of Sale, serve the attorney, whose name will appear at the end of the Notice. If you have not yet received the Notice of Sale, serve the Respondent.
  - (b) Deliver to the Civil Division of the County Sheriff's Department the following documents:
    - 1) The original and a photocopy of the Summons and Notice of Hearing.
    - 2) The original and a photocopy of the Petition and Verified Complaint (with all Exhibits).
    - 3) The original and a photocopy of the Order for Stay of Proceedings.
  - (c) Request that the County Sheriff's Department (1) show the original signed copy of the Order for Stay of Proceedings to the person being served, (2) serve photocopies of all three documents, and (3) return the three original documents to you with a signed Affidavit of Service. The Affidavit of Service should state that the Sheriff's Department both (1) showed the original signed Order to the person served and (2) served all three photocopy documents.
  - (d) Pay the County Sheriff's Department their regular fee for service. Usually it will be more than enough to cover the actual charge and the overpayment will be returned to you after service has been accomplished.
15. After the County Sheriff's Department returns the original signed documents, with the Affidavit of Service attached, to you, make one photocopy of the Affidavit of Service.
16. Take the three original documents with the original Affidavit of Service attached and the original Note of Issue to the Courthouse and file them with the Clerk of District Court. Pay the filing fee (about $35.00) to the Clerk. The Clerk will set up a file for your case (also called an "action") and assign a file number to it. Write in this file number on the documents you have retained in your own file.

Negotiations and Subsequent Proceedings

Following these procedures carefully should stop the mortgage foreclosure proceeding until the hearing on your Petition. The next step is to try to negotiate a settlement so that you can avoid further litigation. You should take the initiative. Contact the foreclosing party (the Respondent) and do some financial planning and analysis that will help you to negotiate effectively. Bear in mind that, unless agreement is reached within 20 days, the Respondent will need to respond to your Petition in writing (see Attachment A). This will require further expense by the Respondent for attorney's fees and may make it more difficult to reach a satisfactory settlement.

Assuming lack of agreement, here's what is likely to happen: You will receive in the mail a legal document labeled "Answer" or "Answer and Counterclaim". In this, the Respondent will admit to some of the allegations (statements) in your Petition, specifically deny others, and state that the Respondent does not know whether certain other allegations are true or not. The Answer will demand that you prove all allegations not admitted to, probably will make one or more specific allegations relative to the justification for the requested postponement, and may state one or more specific "defenses" by the Respondent against the postponement. The Answer will be couched in legal language and may use terms that seem unnecessarily abrasive and argumentative. This kind of language is standard in legal documents of this kind.

The Respondent may also send you a letter suggesting the possibility of a "Stipulation". A Stipulation is a legal document certifying to the Court that the parties to a legal action (here yourself and the Respondent), agree as to certain facts relating to the litigation. It is a tool used in the legal system to make it necessary to prove to the Court that such facts are true. It is not recommended that you sign a Stipulation without legal counsel, except for the Stipulation for Order of Dismissal referred to below.

Important

If you are not able to negotiate an agreement at least a week before the date of the hearing, you should retain a licensed attorney as soon as possible. The attorney will need some time to become familiar with your circumstances and develop a convincing presentation for the hearing. Evidence and results of financial planning will be particularly useful at this time. The attorney also may be able to arrange a satisfactory stipulation.

Dismissing the Action

If an agreement is reached, it should be placed in writing and signed by both parties. Once that has been done, the action should be "dismissed" (withdrawn from litigation). This can be done by filing with the Clerk of District Court a Stipulation for Order of Dismissal signed by all parties or their attorney's and obtaining the Judge's signature on an Order for Dismissal, which must then also be placed in the District Court file. For a sample of a Stipulation for Order of Dismissal, see Attachment D. For a sample Order of Dismissal, see Attachment E. Photocopies of both documents should be sent to the Respondent.

Payment of Respondent's Costs of Foreclosure

As mentioned earlier, one advantage of obtaining a court Order stopping the foreclosure proceedings before the Notice of Sale is published is the avoidance of most, if not all, of the costs incurred by the Respondent in the foreclosure proceedings prior to the stoppage. The 1983 Mortgage Foreclosure Moratorium Act specifically requires that a sum equal to these costs be paid by the Petitioner to the District Court Clerk before any postponement of the sale is effective.

There seems to be variation among the different judicial districts as to when this payment must be made. At the latest, it will be required at the time of the effective date of a judicial Order for a postponement of the sale made by a District Court Judge after a hearing on the Petition. Without payment at that point, the Order will have little or no effect.

Some judges, interpreting the new law differently, have required the Petitioner to make this payment before they will sign the Order for Stay of Proceedings. In fact, just such a refusal prevented one metropolitan-area Petitioner from being able to stop a foreclosure sale of his property, because he was not prepared to make the required payment on the day before the sale was scheduled.

This interpretation seems less likely if the Order is requested in earlier stages of the foreclosure proceedings, but a petitioning landowner cannot be absolutely sure of what will be required of him in a particular District Court. The upshot is - be prepared to make the payment if it is requested. Otherwise, all of your efforts may go for naught.

INSTRUCTIONS

Attachment A: Summons and Notice of Hearing

1. If you prepare an original document place the first line at least one (1) inch below the top of the page and number all pages at the bottom. If you fill in blanks in the form provided (see page 15), type or print all entries. See the sample on page 14 for further guidance.
2. Insert here the name of the county in which the foreclosure proceedings have been commenced. Use all capital letters (e.g., OLMSTED).
3. Insert here the number of the judicial district in which the county is located. Use the map on page 16 to determine the correct number. Use all capital letters (e.g., JACKSON).
4. At this location, type or draw a solid line half-way across the page.
5. Insert here the name(s) of the owner(s) of the property that the mortgage is being foreclosed upon. If the property is owned by yourself and your spouse, include both names. If it is owned by a partnership, use the name of the partnership. Any general partner can sue on behalf of the partnership.
6. Insert here the name of the bank or other agency or individual that has started the foreclosure proceedings. This may be the original lender (mortgagee) of a party to whom the mortgagee has assigned its rights under the mortgage (assignee). Usually, it will be the bank or agency you have been making mortgage payments to.
7. Same as Instruction Four.
8. Leave this space blank until you file this document (and others) with the Clerk of District Court (Step 16), who will then assign a number to your case (also called an "action"). At that time you should fill in the file number on all documents.
