Contributors

GERALD W. DEAN AND HAROLD O. CARTER are Associate Professors of Agricultural Economics in the Department of Agricultural Economics, University of California at Davis. STANLEY S. JOHNSON is an Agricultural Economist with the Farm Production Economics Division, Economic Research Service, stationed at Davis, California.

KEITH G. COWLING, formerly graduate assistant, and C. B. BAKER, professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics, University of Illinois, in recent years have been conducting research on supply functions as related to agricultural adjustments in the Lake States Dairy region.

NORMAN TOWNSHEND-ZELLNER, previous to his recent change to another Government service, had been with the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 6 years studying the behavior of agricultural commodity markets. At the time of his transfer he was with the Basic Research Group of the Marketing Economics Division, where he concentrated on research methods. He is now an operations research analyst with the Department of the Army. His address is Management Group, U.S. Army Transportation Material Command, 12th and Spruce Streets, St. Louis, Missouri.

HENRY A. WALLACE, Secretary of Agriculture for nearly 8 years and Vice President of the United States for four, is now carrying on experiments in genetics at his farm in New York State. Russell Lord for many years has been closely associated with Mr. Wallace; he is the author of The Wallaces of Iowa.

ALLEN B. PAUL, Basic Research Group, Marketing Economics Division, Economic Research Service, is engaged in research in capital and finance in relation to food marketing.

ERNEST W. GROVE is Staff Assistant in the Policy and Program Appraisal Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. A member of the Conference on Research in Income and Wealth since 1940, he was for many years in charge of farm income work in the U.S. Department of Agriculture.
