PETER L. HANSEN served in several governmental agencies before becoming an agricultural economist in BAE. RONALD L. MIGHELL, leader of interregional competition studies, is joint author with John D. Black of the new book, Interregional Competition in Agriculture, published by Harvard University Press.

ADON POLI has been active in land economics with California State and other public agencies, including the War Relocations Authority. Since the war he has been studying forest-land ownership.

KARL A. FOX, Head of the Division of Statistical and Historical Research, has done considerable work on the measurement of factors affecting farm prices and income. HARRY C. NORCROSS regularly works on the Bureau's estimates of farm income and production expenditures. He has also prepared basic data on agriculture for two major studies of interindustry relationships.

JAMES P. CAVIN, Bureau of the Budget, has special responsibilities in the field of defense program statistics.

RICHARD J. FOOTE is an analytical statistician in commodity research.

WILLIAM T. WOLFREY, JR., is assistant to the Chief responsible for administrative management of the Bureau. He has held other administrative positions in the Government in which the problems of administration of scientific research were of paramount concern.

GEORGE L. ROBBINS spent approximately half of the past year at the international conference devoted to problems of tariff and trade, held in England.

CARL C. TAYLOR, Head of the Division of Farm Population and Rural Life, has lived and worked in the South.

GEORGE R. PHILLIPS, a forester by profession and by long and varied experience, is a member of the Land and Water Staff in the Office of the Secretary.

NATHAN M. KOFFSKY is now Associate Head of the Division of Statistical and Historical Research.

C. KYLE RANDALL, known for his work in connection with parity prices has written on the subject for this magazine.

MAX J. WASSERMAN is Special Assistant, Intelligence and Services, Office of International Trade, of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

GLADYS L. BAKER, agricultural historian, is studying the Department's defense activities under a project established, at the request of the President, by Secretary's Memorandum No. 1300, September 25, 1951
