Contributors

HAROLD F. BREIMYER heads the Livestock Section of the Statistical and Historical Research Branch, AMS. His outlook forecasts on cattle and hogs have gained a wide audience.

HEINRICH STRECKER, a mathematical statistician in the Bavarian Statistics Office, Munich, Germany, is the author of articles on sampling and its application to agricultural surveys. Letters addressed to him should be sent to Bayerisches Statistisches Landesamt, Rosenheimer Strasse 130, Munich 8, Germany.

WALTER A. HENDRICKS, who translated Dr. Strecker's article for this issue, is in charge of research and development work in the Agricultural Estimates Division, AMS.

FREDERICK V. WAUGH, Director of the Agricultural Economics Division, AMS, returns to Agricultural Economics Research with another of his stimulating reviews of major econometrics researches.

WARREN R. BAILEY is assistant head, Western Field Research Section, Production Economics Research Branch, ARS. For several years he has specialized in farm management research.

WILLIAM H. SCOFIELD heads the work in land values and land valuation in the Land and Water Section, Production Economics Research Branch, ARS.

KENNETH W. MEINKEN is with the Income and Demand Section of the Farm Income Branch, AMS. During the past year he has been working on the analysis of demand for wheat.

GLENN L. BURROWS is a mathematical statistician who has served for several years as statistical consultant in the Department, formerly with BAE, now with AMS.

WAYNE D. RASMUSSEN of the Statistical and Historical Research Branch of AMS is an agricultural historian.
