Contributors

EARL E. HOUSEMAN, a mathematical statistician, is Director of the Statistical Standards Division of AMS. BENJAMIN LIPSTEIN, a research executive in Benton and Bowles, Inc., was formerly Technical Director in the Audits and Surveys Company, Inc.

SOLOMON DUTKA is president of the Audits and Surveys Company, Inc., and LESTER R. FRANKEL is vice president.

HARRY C. TRELOGAN, Assistant Administrator for Marketing Research, AMS, author of our review of Economics for Agriculture, was never a student of Dr. Black's, but like most economists of our generation he came under the influence of the great teacher and inspiring leader in many ways, directly and indirectly. Through his association with Dr. Black at the Brookings Institution in the 1930's, and as an active participant in professional societies through the years, our reviewer became familiar with his work and experienced the impact of his personality.

HAROLD F. BREIMYER, a frequent contributor to this journal, is Staff Economist for Agriculture with the Council of Economic Advisers in the Executive Office of the President. He received the Ph. D. degree of American University at the June commencement this year.

JOSEPH G. KNAPP began his service with the Federal Government 26 years ago as Head of the Purchasing Section of the Cooperative Research and Service Division of the Farm Credit Administration. From 1948 to 1953 he served as Associate Chief of this Division. In 1953 he became Administrator of the Farmer Cooperative Service, his present position.

WILLIAM A. VOGELY, Assistant Chief Economist, Bureau of Mines, U.S. Department of the Interior, teaches a graduate course in economic analysis, including the theory of economic growth, in the USDA Graduate School. He holds the Ph. D. degree of Princeton University.

J. C. WINTER is Chief of the Transportation Research Branch, Transportation and Facilities Research Division, AMS. He has been in charge of the research in the transportation of agricultural commodities since 1942.

WALTER A. HENDRICKS was formerly in charge of research and development work for the Agricultural Estimates Division, AMS. He recently retired from Government service and joined the staff of the Division of Statistics in the Research Triangle Institute at Durham, North Carolina.
