CHANGES IN FARM PRODUCTION AND EFFICIENCY

Donald D. Durost and Evelyn T. Black

Abstract

Farm output in 1977 rose 3 percent above the 1976 record high and inputs used increased by 1 percent. Cropland used for crops increased 7 million acres or 2 percent over 1976, and crop production per acre of cropland used increased 5 percent, equaling the 1973 record. Fertilizer use continued to rise, reaching a new record high of 22.1 million tons of primary plant nutrients. Stocks of tractors and other machinery items on farms continued the downward trend of recent years. Hours of farm labor also continued its long-term decline, with a 3-percent decrease from 1976.

Key words: Farm output, inputs, cropland, fertilizer, machinery, productivity, and labor.

Data from the Census of Agriculture serve as check points or benchmarks for many of the statistical tables in this publication. Some of the series in this issue have been revised from 1970 to date on the basis of the 1974 Census. Revisions in the farm labor hours from 1970 to date are the results of new data supplied for some field crops by Firm Enterprise Data Systems (FEDS), a computerized estimating model operated by ESCS research staff at Oklahoma State University.

PREFACE

This publication contains all historical data for the major statistical series on farm production, production inputs, and efficiency. It also provides in one place the latest information, for appraising changes in production, changes in farm inputs and practices, improvements in labor productivity, and progress in farm mechanization.

For a description of the methods used in developing the series shown, see Major Statistical Series of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, How They Are Constructed and Used, AH-365, Vol. 2, Agricultural Production and Efficiency, 1970.

Data for the 10 farm production regions, formerly published separately as supplements to this publication, have been incorporated as part of this issue. For States included in each region, see map below.

This publication was prepared under the general direction of Donald D. Durost and compiled by Evelyn T. Black. The following persons may be contacted for more information on these subjects:

CHANGES IN FARM PRODUCTION AND EFFICIENCY

National Economic Analysis Division

Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service

HIGHLIGHTS

Preliminary indications for 1978 show farm output (as of September) equal to the 1977 record. Livestock production is up, based on large increases in poultry production. Crop production is near last year's level. Cropland used for crops is down slightly, but crop output per acre is at a new high. Total inputs used in production are near last year's level. Productivity of labor and total inputs may equal or surpass the 1977 record.

The 1977 growing season will be known as the season of the timely rainfall. As the season began, subsoil moisture was short in much of the important North Central farming region. However, throughout the growing season, timely rainfalls produced a near normal crop. The East Coast region was not as fortunate. Dry and hot conditions prevailed throughout the season.

Total U.S. farm output in 1977 was over 3 percent above the 1976 record and a fifth greater than a decade earlier (table 1). Increases in both livestock and crop production contributed to this record output.

Livestock production on farms increased 1 percent from 1976. Hog production increased 7 percent, offsetting a 1-percent decline in cattle and calves. Dairy and poultry products advanced to new highs, both increasing 2 percent.

Crop production rose 7 percent overall. Feed grains, fruits and nuts, and oil crops rose to new heights. Cotton production showed the greatest increase, reaching the highest level in over a decade. Hay and forage production was the only other crop group to increase. Food grains production declined 7 percent. Both sugar and tobacco crops were down 9 percent.

Regional farm output in 1977 rose to record levels in the Lake States, Corn Belt, Northern Plains, Delta States, and Southern Plains (tables 2-11).

Livestock production rose in all except the Mountain and Pacific regions. Record production was attained in the Appalachian, Southeast, and Delta States regions on the strength of greater poultry production.

Crop production increased in the Lake States, Corn Belt, and Northern Plains regions because of large increases in grain and oil crop production. Greater crop production was achieved in the Delta States and Southern Plains regions because of the large output of cotton and oil crops. The hot and dry growing conditions in the Appalachian and Southeast regions caused crop output to decline.

Harvested crop acreage in 1977 rose to 343 million (table 12), up 6 million from 1976. Major acreage increases occurred in oats, barley, cotton, and soybeans. Soybeans increased 8.5 million acres. All wheat acreage declined 4.5 million acres, the largest decline for any crop.

Agricultural exports required the production of 107 million acres, up 5 million and equivalent to 31 percent of total harvested acreage. Food grains, chiefly wheat, accounted for 37 percent of the export acres. Oil crops accounted for 30 percent followed by feed grains, 24 percent; cotton, 5 percent; and all other, 4 percent.

Cropland used for crops totaled 377 million acres in 1977, an increase of 7 million acres or 2 percent over 1976 (table 13). The total was the largest since 1955 and only 10 million acres below the record acreage used in 1949. Increases occurred in most regions; however, decreases occurred in the Mountain and Pacific regions (tables 14-24).

Crop production per acre of cropland used in 1977 increased 5 percent, equaling the 1973 record (table 25). Only soybean and potato yields were at record levels; however, yields for other important crops such as corn, wheat, cotton, and sorghum grain increased, more than offsetting the declines in barley, rice, peanuts, and tobacco yields.

Crop production per acre reached a new high only in the Lake States, Southern Plains, and Pacific regions. On the other hand, crop production per acre was the lowest in over a decade in the Appalachian and Southeast regions, reflecting the poor 1977 growing conditions.

Fertilizer use in 1977 increased 6 percent to a new record high of 22.1 million tons of the three primary nutrients, nitrogen, phosphate, and potash (table 26). This change, along with the 18-percent increase in 1976, raised consumption above the trend line of use of the last 10 years. Increased spring 1977 crop prices and stable fertilizer prices encouraged farmers to plant more acreage and to use more fertilizer.

Nitrogen consumption increased 2 percent; phosphate and potash use were up 8 percent and 12 percent, respectively. Nitrogen use was up for all except the Corn Belt, Mountain, and Pacific regions (table 27). The Mountain region was the only one that did not increase application of phosphate (table 28). All regions increased the use of potash (table 29).

Application rates of the three plant nutrients were up from last year on corn and wheat but were mixed for cotton and soybeans. Soybean producers increased the rate of application of nitrogen and phosphate by 14 and 7 percent, respectively, but applied the same amount of potash. The cotton crop received 1 pound per acre more of phosphate but less nitrogen and potash.

Stocks of tractors and machinery items on farms continued the downward trend of recent years (table 30). This can be largely attributed to the declining number of farms and slow machinery sales in recent years.

Sales of all major types of farm machinery items for 1977 dropped from the previous year's levels. Tractor sales for 1977 were down 5 percent from a year earlier. New combine, cornhead, grindermixer, and manure spreader sales in 1977 were off by 11 percent, 19 percent, 16 percent, and 17 percent, respectively. Declines in sales of forage harvesters, mower conditioners, balers, and windrowers ranged from 1 to 9 percent between 1976 and 1977.

Tractor units on farms as of January 1, 1978, were estimated at 4.37 million units, down from 4.40 million units a year earlier. Corn pickers (including picker-shellers) were estimated at 602,000 on January 1, 1978, down from 605,000 on the same date in 1977. Self-propelled combines were up from 535,000 on January 1, 1977, to 538,000 in 1978. This increase is attributed largely to the replacement of power-take-off driven units.

Sales of tractors continue to be increasingly concentrated in the larger size units. Annual sales of 2-wheel drive tractors rated under 100 horsepower decreased from 122,000 in 1973 to 62,000 in 1977. On the other hand, annual sales of 2-wheel drive tractors rated 100 horsepower and over dropped from 69,000 to 61,000 during that same period. Sales of 4-wheel drive tractors increased from 6,000 in 1973 to 8,000 in 1977. New tractors sold in 1977 averaged 105 horsepower, and the average size of all tractors on farms as of January 1, 1978, was estimated at 55 horsepower, compared with 35 horsepower in 1963.

While new machinery unit sales continued to drop in 1977, prices continued to rise. Prices of 2-wheel drive tractors increased 8 to 9 percent while 4-wheel drive tractor prices were up 4 percent from September 1976 to September 1977. Prices of medium capacity combines rose 12 percent, and forage harvester prices advanced 5 percent during the same period.

Total hours of labor used on U.S. farms declined 3 percent from 1976 (tables 31 and 32) to 4.7 billion. Preharvest and harvest activities performed on all crops shared the bulk of these hours, 2.5 billion. Care of livestock accounted for 1.5 billion hours, and 0.7 billion hours were required for all overhead and miscellaneous farm activities.

The continued trend of fewer hours necessary for farmwork can mainly be attributed to declining farm numbers and the steady improvement in farm machinery and equipment.

In 1977, labor used on all crop production decreased 1 percent from the previous year. Increases occurred in two crop groups: fruits and nuts, 5 percent, and oil crops, 14 percent. The increase in hours spent on oil crops was due to a 33-percent rise in the production of soybeans, the largest on record. Decreases occurred in all other crop groups. The largest decreases were in sugar crops, tobacco, and food grains, down 12 percent, 10 percent, and 9 percent, respectively. Other decreases ranged from 6 percent for cotton to 1 percent for vegetables.

Hours of labor in 1977 utilized for the production of all classes of livestock decreased 6 percent. Milk cows declined 7 percent, while meat animals and poultry each declined 6 percent.

In general, labor hours in each of the regions followed the U.S. trend. The Southern Plains was the only region that had a slight increase of less than 1 percent. The Northeast and Appalachian regions each declined 5 percent; the Corn Belt, Southeast, and Mountain regions were down 4 percent; the Lake States and Northern Plains regions dropped 3 percent; and the Delta States and Pacific regions declined 2 percent (tables 33-43).

Farm labor productivity in 1977 increased 7 percent over 1976 (table 44).

Labor productivity for livestock in 1977 increased 6 percent. All livestock groups shared in this increase. Milk cows and poultry each gained 8 percent and meat animals rose 5 percent.

Labor productivity for all crops increased 8 percent. The largest increase in the crop groups was in cotton, partly reflecting the near-record yields. Other increases occurred in oil crops, hay and forage, feed grains, food grains, and sugar crops, up 13 percent, 10 percent, 7 percent, and 3 percent, respectively. Small decreases were noted for fruits and nuts, down 2 percent, and tobacco, down 1 percent. No change occurred in labor productivity for the vegetable group.

Production per hour rose in six regions (tables 45-54). The Lake States region led with an increase of 27 percent. Increases also were recorded in the Northern Plains, up 14 percent; the Southern Plains, up 10 percent; Delta States, up 7 percent; Corn Belt, up 6 percent; and Northeast region, up 2 percent. Decreases occurred in the other four regions: Southeast, down 7 percent; Mountain and Pacific regions, each down 3 percent; and the Appalachian region, down 1 percent.

Total quantity of farm inputs used in 1977 rose 1 percent from 1976 (table 55). Total inputs have remained about constant for the last two decades. Farmers are constantly substituting more productive inputs for less productive ones.

Farm labor and the taxes and interest input groups declined in 1977 compared with 1976. Farm labor continued its long-term downward trend. Today, farm labor is only a third of the 1950 level. Taxes and interest have remained nearly constant for over a decade.

Two input groups were unchanged from the previous year's level; farm real estate, and the feed, seed, and livestock purchases group. Combined, these inputs accounted for 30 percent of the total inputs used.

The remaining three input groups--mechanical power and machinery, agricultural chemicals, and miscellaneous--increased in 1977. Mechanical power and machinery use rose 1 percent. Farmers are substituting larger and more efficient tractors and machinery for older equipment and labor. Increased acreage in 1977 added to the quantity of fuel used and repairs made. Fertilizer and pesticide use combined rose 4 percent. This increase partly reflects the stepped-up acreage and greater use per acre. The miscellaneous inputs rose 10 percent. These three groups accounted for 46 percent of all inputs.

Farmers continue to use more purchased inputs. This category of inputs rose 3 percent. Nonpurchased inputs such as unpaid family and operator labor were down 2 percent. Purchased inputs account for 57 percent of all inputs.

Regional changes for total farm inputs were relatively minor (tables 56-65). Most of the regions had no change in the quantity of total inputs used. The Corn Belt had a slight decline, while the Lake States, Southeast, and Delta States had slight increases.

Farm output per unit of input for the United States increased nearly 3 percent (tables 66 and 67), reflecting more efficient use of resources in most of the major farming regions. These conditions resulted in record output per unit of input for the United States and four regions; Lake States, Corn Belt, Delta States, and Southern Plains. Output per unit of input was at a near record in the Northern Plains. All regions along the East and West Coasts showed declines--the greatest drop occurring in the Southeast.

1/ Horses and mules excluded. 2/ Includes clipped wool, honey, and beeswax. These items are not included in the separate groups of livestock and livestock products shown. 3/ Cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, and hogs. 4/ Butter, butterfat, wholesale milk, retail milk, and milk consumed on farms. 5/ Chicken eggs, commercial broilers, chickens, and turkeys. 6/ Includes hay seeds, pasture seeds, and cover-crop seeds; and some miscellaneous crop production not included in separate groups of crops shown. Farm gardens were excluded after 1964. 7/ Corn for grain, oats, barley, and sorghum grain. 8/ All hay, sorghum forage, sorghum silage, and corn silage. 9/ All wheat and rice. 10/ Potatoes, sweetpotatoes, truck crops for processing, and truck crops for fresh market. 11/ Fruits, berries, and tree nuts. Citrus production is on year of harvest 1960 to date. Earlier years on year of bloom. 12/ Sugarcane for sugar and seed, sugarcane sirup, and sorghum sirup. 13/ Due to small quantity of tobacco produced, the index is not shown separately but is included in total crop production. 14/ Soybeans, peanuts for nuts, and cottonseed. Tungnuts and peanuts hogged were excluded after 1964. 15/ Preliminary.

1/ Horses and mules excluded. 2/ Includes clipped wool, mohair, honey, and beeswax. These items are not included in the separate groups of livestock and livestock products shown. 3/ Cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, and hogs. 4/ Butter, butterfat, wholesale milk, retail milk, and milk consumed on farms. 5/ Chicken eggs, commercial broilers, chickens, and turkeys. 6/ Includes hay seeds, pasture seeds, and cover-crop seeds; and some miscellaneous crop production not included in separate groups of crops shown. Farm gardens were excluded after 1964. 7/ Corn for grain, oats, barley, and sorghum grain. 8/ All hay, sorghum forage, sorghum silage, and corn silage. 9/ All wheat, rye, and rice. 10/ Potatoes, sweetpotatoes, truck crops for processing, and truck crops for fresh market. 11/ Fruits, berries, and tree nuts. Citrus production is on year of harvest 1960 to date. Earlier years on year of bloom. 12/ Due to small quantities produced, the index is not shown separately but is included in total crop production. 13/ Soybeans, peanuts for nuts, cottonseed, and flaxseed. Peanuts hogged were excluded after 1964. 14/ Preliminary.

<sup>1/</sup> Horses and mules excluded. <sup>2/</sup> Includes wool, mohair, honey, and beeswax. These items are not included in the separate groups of livestock and livestock products shown. <sup>3/</sup> Cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, and hogs. <sup>4/</sup> Butter, butterfat, wholesale milk, retail milk, and milk consumed on farms. <sup>5/</sup> Chicken eggs, commercial broilers, chickens, and turkeys. <sup>6/</sup> Includes hay seeds, pasture seeds, and cover-crop seeds; and some miscellaneous crop production not included in separate groups of crops shown. Farm gardens were excluded after 1964. <sup>7/</sup> Corn for grain, oats, barley, and sorghum grain. <sup>8/</sup> All hay, sorghum forage, sorghum silage, and corn silage. <sup>9/</sup> All wheat and rye. <sup>10/</sup> Potatoes, sweetpotatoes, dry edible beans, dry field peas, truck crops for processing, and truck crops for fresh market. <sup>11/</sup> Fruits, berries, and tree nuts. Citrus production is on year of harvest 1960 to date. Earlier years on year of bloom. <sup>12/</sup> Sugarbeets. <sup>13/</sup> Due to small quantity of flaxseed and cottonseed produced, the index is not shown separately but is included in total crop production. <sup>14/</sup> Preliminary.

<sup>1</sup> Data as of January 1. Base data are derived primarily from Agricultural Census reports. For years not covered and items not reported in the Agricultural Census, the following information sources were used to derive estimates: Current Industrial Reports of the Census Bureau (formerly Facts for Industry), annual registrations of motor vehicles, results of surveys, changes in farm income, and estimated discard rates. <sup>2</sup> Includes wheel and crawler type tractors. <sup>3</sup> Data for 1975 and after are for self-propelled combines only. <sup>4</sup> Includes cornheads for combines. <sup>5</sup> Does not include balers, producing bales weighing more than 200 pounds. <sup>6</sup> Data for 1976 and after do not include flail-type forage harvesters. <sup>7</sup> Census of Agriculture year. <sup>8</sup> Preliminary.

<sup>1</sup> Includes labor used on crops, livestock, and overhead. After 1964, labor used for horses and mules, and farm gardens were excluded. <sup>2</sup> For livestock included in each group, see table 1, footnotes 2 to 6. <sup>3</sup> For crops included in each group, see table 1, footnotes 7 to 14. * Preliminary.
