SUMMARY OF REPORT

Central and Eastern European Agriculture Adapts to Open Markets

Number 10, February 1993

Contact: Jason Lamb, (202) 219-0620

Central and Eastern European (CEE) agriculture underwent dramatic change during the last 3 years. The introduction of market pricing, open borders, and increased freedom of entry and exit for firms occurred without the institutional and legal structures necessary for a market economy. Progress varies widely by country, but the northern countries of Poland, Hungary, and the Czech and Slovak Republics are much further along than the southern countries of Bulgaria, Romania, and Yugoslavia. The effect of market reforms on agriculture is documented in the 76-page report, Agricultural Policies and Performance in Central and Eastern Europe, 1989-92 (FAER-247).

Many CEE countries shifted from pre-reform tight agricultural supplies or outright shortages to post-reform surpluses. Food availability and diversity have increased appreciably. Food prices have risen in nominal terms, but generally have lagged behind the overall inflation rate, reducing the prices of many food items relative to other goods and services.

But, farm financial performance has been poor. Food prices have risen, but less than farm input prices. Many issues regarding land and asset ownership in the farm sector remain unresolved, leading to uncertainty for planting and production. Consumer demand for agricultural products is depressed due to the sudden rise in consumer prices, while nominal income growth has been restricted through wage/pension caps. In addition, where the farm sector previously enjoyed unlimited demand for its products, it now faces stiff competition from a wider array of consumer products.

U.S. Export Opportunities

The value of U.S. agricultural exports to CEE countries dropped in 1991 due to the CEE's lack of hard currency needed to buy U.S. agricultural products and, more important, the CEE surplus of agricultural products from lower domestic demand and bumper grain harvests. U.S. agricultural exports of $225.3 million in 1991 were well below the 1990 level of $536.2 million. The level of U.S. agricultural exports has been bolstered by food aid granted to the CEE area, especially to Romania. CEE markets should stabilize and diminish the need for food aid.

Long-term export opportunities exist for U.S. agricultural inputs, machinery, and processing facilities, as well as soybeans and meal, cotton, tobacco, rice, certain specialty foods (nonindigenous fruits and fruit products, nuts), and consumer-ready foods. In addition, U.S. expertise in financing, farm management, and food processing is needed in the CEE countries. More short-term food aid may be needed in Albania, Romania, and some of the former Yugoslav republics.

Agricultural Production Steady as Domestic Demand Drops

The problems faced by the CEE agricultural sector had a smaller impact on production in 1991 than economists expected. Gross agricultural production in the region declined by 4.9 percent compared with 1990. Production levels in 1991 for most grains exceeded their 1986-90 averages, while many livestock and oilseed products fell below their 1986-90 levels.

SUMMARY OF REPORT

U.S. Initiative Supports Economic and Trade Reform in Latin America and the Caribbean

Number 17, May 1993

Contact Liana Neff, (202) 219-0610.

Western Hemisphere countries are seeking trade liberalization that may eventually lead to a hemispheric free trade zone. The Enterprise for the Americas Initiative (EAI) is a U.S. program supporting economic and trade reform underway in Latin America and the Caribbean. The program's major provisions are described in a new USDA report by the Economic Research Service, The U.S. Enterprise for the Americas Initiative: Support for Western Hemisphere Economic and Trade Reform.

The initiative's objectives are to promote liberalized trade, reduce official debt, and increase foreign investment in the Latin American and Caribbean countries. These countries have renewed regional agreements and have taken new steps toward stabilizing their domestic economies. No longer following protectionist import-substitution policies, regional and subregional groups of countries are promoting unilateral reductions in trade barriers and greater international interaction by their members.

Trade liberalization began in the Western Hemisphere in the 1960's, but was largely unsuccessful. Latin American initiatives renewed the effort in the 1980's, and the EAI has given added focus and direction to ongoing trade and investment liberalization in the 1990's. The United States has completed a free trade agreement with Canada and initialed a North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) including Mexico on October 7, 1992. The EAI begins to expand this process throughout Latin America and the Caribbean, a process that may take many years because of the complex issues involved.

The EAI proposes action in three areas for the Western Hemisphere: (1) liberalizing trade, (2) reducing the debt owed to the United States by less-developed countries (LDC's), and (3) increasing foreign investment in LDC's.

Latin American and Caribbean agricultural exports, 1987

Only 6 percent of the agricultural exports of Latin American and Caribbean countries go to other Latin American and Caribbean countries, nearly a third of the exports go to the United States.

Sugar and Corn Sweetener Demand Shift in Mexico, Canada, and the U.S.

Number 18, May 1993

Contact: Ron Lord (202) 219-0888

The trade flows in sugar and high-fructose corn sweetener (HFCS) among Mexico, Canada, and the United States consist mainly of U.S. exports of refined sugar to Mexico, U.S.-Canadian two-way trade in sugar and HFCS, and recent growth in U.S. HFCS exports to Mexico. A new USDA report, Sugar and Corn Sweetener: Changing Demand and Trade in Mexico, Canada, and the United States, demonstrates how the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) could increase these trade flows by reducing tariffs and allowing competitive advantage (for example, the United States in HFCS) to satisfy regional consumption habits

The United States and Mexico produce a significant share of their sugar needs, whereas Canada imports most of its sugar Canadian sugar consumption is almost 1 million tons, and imports account for over 80 percent of that amount. Canadian sugar consumption declined in the late 1980's due to competition from HFCS, but it is rising once again Mexican sugar consumption has grown at about 4 percent per year since 1974 to 4.5 million tons in 1992/93, which exceeds Mexico's current production level by about 750,000 tons

Sugar trade is affected by a country's natural resources, milling/refining capacity, production programs/subsidies, and trade agreements. The U.S. HFCS industry, for example, has expanded because of relatively low-priced corn, efficient transportation and storage, and technological enhancements to production capacity. HFCS largely replaced sugar in the beverage market and led to a contraction in U.S. sugar demand. The United States entirely shielded domestic sugar producers from this decline in market share to HFCS by imposing a quota on sugar imports. Consequently, imports fell from about 5 million tons in the 1970's to 1-2 million tons in the last few years.

SUMMARY OF REPORT

EC Agricultural Policy Reform Aims to Control Expenditures and Reduce Surpluses

Number 21, June 1993

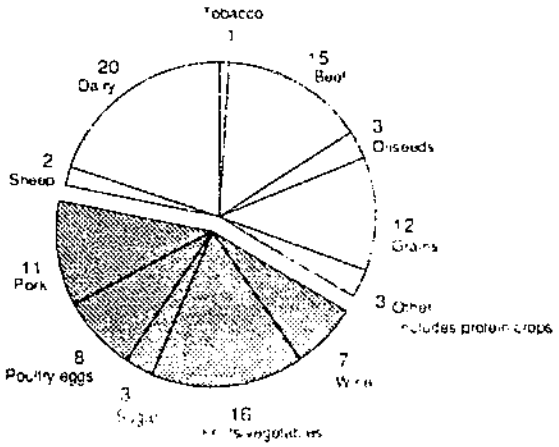
Contact: Mary Lisa Madell (202) 219-0622

The European Community (EC) adopted a major reform of its Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) in May 1992, after more than a year of intense debate. A new USDA report, CAP Reform: A New Era for EC Agriculture, outlines the package of reforms, to be phased in beginning in the 1993/94 marketing year, that will alter EC production, consumption, and trade of most major commodities.

Unlike previous reforms in the CAP's 30-year history, this program significantly changes the policy tools used to support farmers. CAP reform was spurred by the EC's inability to control expenditures and production of surplus commodities. International pressures, both from General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations and from bilateral trade disputes, provided added impetus.

EC agricultural production, 1990 (percent of total value)

CAP reform entails policy changes for commodities totaling 56 percent of EC agricultural production



EC support policies will change for grains, oilseeds, protein crops (field peas, beans, and sweet lupins), dairy, beef, sheepmeat, and tobacco. These commodities account for 56 percent of the total value of EC agricultural production.

New policy tools will provide direct payments to farmers and attempt to limit production. The most significant changes were made to the grains and beef sectors, both plagued by surpluses. Sectors not included in the reforms will be indirectly affected. Pork, poultry, and egg producers, for example, will enjoy lower feed costs as feed support prices are reduced. Vegetable producers may face increased competition as current grain and oilseed producers decide to diversify their crop mixes.

Chief characteristics of CAP reform are (1) reduction of support prices, (2) introduction of corresponding compensatory payments, and (3) introduction of new supply control measures. The EC provides much of its support to farmers through high guaranteed prices. CAP reform lowers support prices for grains, beef, and dairy
