SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY ON INFLATION AND ITS CONTROL^{1/}

"Proceedings On Economic Mobilization," AMERICAN ECONOMIC REVIEW, March 1951. This is an excellent discussion of the entire problem of mobilization written by several well known economists.

Hart, Albert G., DEFENSE WITHOUT INFLATION, Twentieth Century Fund, New York, April 1951. A short and very excellent analysis of the problems of defense and inflation with a chapter of recommendations by the 20th Century Fund's Committee on Stabilization.

Galbraith, J. K., "The Strategy of Control," REVIEW OF ECONOMICS AND STATISTICS, February 1951. Some often neglected points on direct controls by an economist who has administered them.

INFLATION STILL A DANGER, Report of the Joint Committees on the Economic Report, Senate Report No. 644, 82nd Congress, 1st Session, August 15, 1951.

THE MID-YEAR ECONOMIC REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT, by Council of Economic Advisors, July 1951. This report contains up-to-date tables in the appendix giving all pertinent data relating to production, employment, purchasing power, etc.

MONETARY AND FISCAL POLICY FOR ECONOMIC STABILIZATION, Report by the Committee for Economic Development.

Schlichter, Sumner H., "To Curb Inflation and Equalize Its Burden," NEW YORK TIMES MAGAZINE, December 17, 1950.

USDA, DEMAND AND PRICE SITUATION, April 1951. The economic outlook for 1951.

There are many other books on the subject and a variety of publications from the state colleges which are helpful in furnishing background information.
