FOOD DISTRIBUTION

RESEARCH SOCIETY

“An Organizational Success Story”

In May 1960, a group of interested educators, government researchers, and food industry people met to discuss their many mutual problems. The open, frank discussion sparked the enthusiasm of those involved and annually thereafter, the group informally sponsored the Food Distribution Research conference at various universities throughout the United States.

The need for more formal organization was recognized and at the 1967 conference the Food Distribution Research Society was officially formed.

The need to coordinate food distribution research and its implementation has brought together, as members of the society, a group of concerned persons dedicated to progress in this particular industry.

This is an invitation to you to become an active member of the Food Distribution Research Society.

ORGANIZATION—

To organize and hold conferences, meetings, symposiums, etc.; to attract leaders in the field of food distribution research; and to provide an atmosphere wherein ideas, methods, technical developments, and problems can be freely discussed.

RESEARCH—

To encourage research by defining research problems of the industry; by providing guidelines and direction for developing and implementing food distribution research; by coordinating efforts of research workers; by feeding back research needs to researchers.

INFORMATION—

To serve as an information clearinghouse for past, current, and future food distribution research; and to provide channels for exchange of information.

IMPLEMENTATION—

To encourage implementation of research findings through communication of research results to users; through training; and through encouragement of application and implementation research.

PROFESSIONAL ADVANCEMENT—

To gain increased recognition for the Food Distribution Research field, thereby enhancing the roles of those involved in it.
