FTAs and the multilateral trading system

- FTAs can complement multilateralism by dealing with issues that are not being addressed in a multilateral setting
- They undermine multilateralism with distinctive rules and regulations that can be confusing and burdensome
- The importance of trade diversion

Conclusions

- Economic studies have contributed to the debate on the merits of FTAs and are a part of the political decision-making process
- The motivation for expanding FTAs is strong and perhaps growing
- Multilateralism is best, but ...
