THE AUSTRALIAN AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS SOCIETY

This Society, formed in 1957 with the major aim of fostering the widest possible interest in and understanding of the economic problems of agriculture, will hold its next Annual Conference in Melbourne in February, 1959.

The Conference programme, designed to attract a widely representative attendance and to stimulate discussion in a variety of fields, includes papers by the following speakers:

Sir Samuel Wadham: United Kingdom agricultural policy and the Australian farm programme.

Dr. H. C. Coombs: Some aspects of the rural credit situation in Australia.

Drs. D. B. Williams and H. J. Fallding: A symposium on agricultural extension.

G. O. Gutman: Australian cost and income levels compared with those of our competitors.

Dr. W. Candler: A new look at budgeting from the standpoint of linear programming.

The Presidential Address will be delivered by Mr. J. G. Crawford, Commonwealth Department of Trade.

Anyone interested in attending the 1959 Conference, or desiring to obtain additional details of the Conference arrangements, should contact the Secretary of the Society, Mr. C. P. Dowsett, c.o. Rural Bank of New South Wales, Martin Place, Sydney.
